

Confessions of a Wanna-Be Curl Star

A chronicle of a below average mane's journey from relaxed to natural.

Sunday, April 18, 2010

Why I Blog

The Confession

About Me

The Star

22 year old dreamer and 1L (law student) ready to make her mark on the world!

View my complete profile

Blog Archive

▼ 2010 (36)

► May (1)

▼ April (10)

New!

Moisture, moisture,
moisture!

New Style part 2

Instead of a Wash and Go

Moving on up

Quick Product Reviews

This is the Life

Press

I'm at a really difficult place right now. My hair...

Wig

► March (7)

► February (5)

► January (13)

► 2009 (95)

Labels

2010 (2)

Apple Cider Vinegar (2)

aussie (1)

baggying (1)

Big Chop (1)

blizzard (1)

blowout (1)

boyfriend (1)

braids (3)

Quick Product Reviews

Oyin Burnt Sugah Hair Pomade- 2 out of 5

The Jane Carter Solution Hair Revitalizing Spray- 5 out of 5

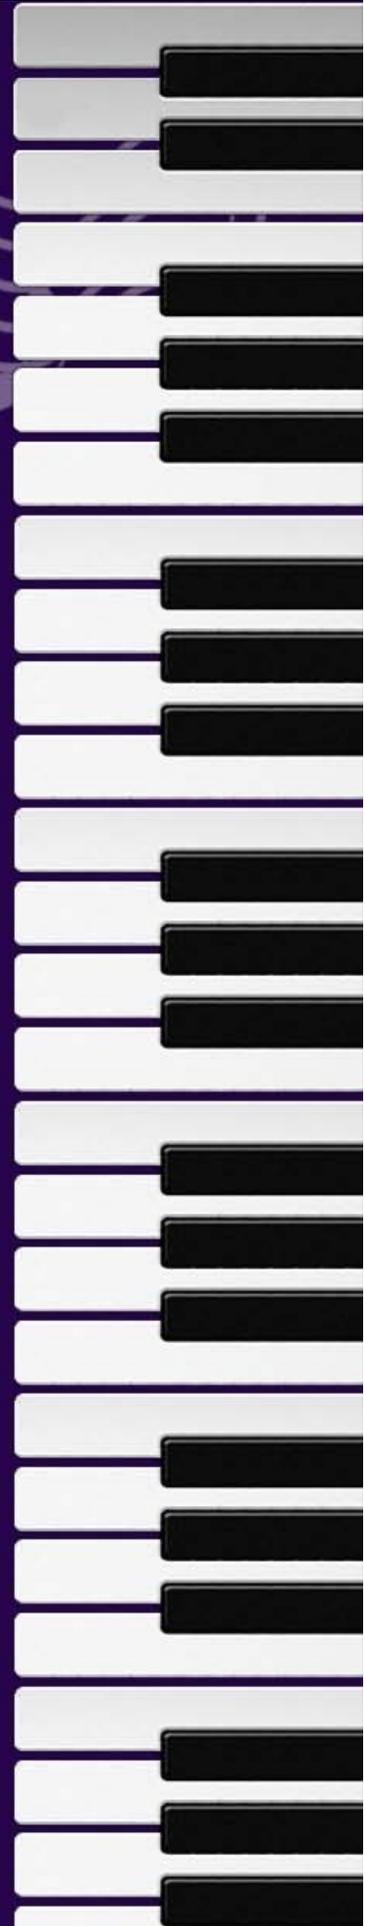

The Jane Carter Solution Hair Nourishing Cream- 2 out of 5

The verdict on Oyin Burnt Sugah Hair Pomade is less than stellar. I ordered it Black Friday, and have used it now and again since then. It feels gritty, and actually smells way too sweet. Now, we all know that I LOVE sweets- hence I can't stay a size 6 but for so long before I gotta pull my 8 & 10 jeans out the closet, but this stuff takes the cake (hehe). It smells like pancakes drowned in maple syrup. And the results are nothing spectacular. I love how the marketing on their websites will tell you that beautiful shiny moisturized hair will appear after taking down twist. Well, not the case for me. My twist had mediocre definition & absolutely no shine. I was actually disappointed at how dry my hair looked!

Fast forward to yesterday. To put a little moisture in my hair by using Jane Carter's Revitalizing spray and Hair nourishing cream. Well, the verdict is in for that too. The Revitalizing spray remains my FAVORITE leave-in of all time. I absolutely love that her products smell like sunflowers. And it's super moisturizing for a leave-in. My hair actually feels revitalized. If my hair is properly moisturized I just use it in the morning and midday as a refresher. But, that hair nourishing cream can get to stepping! All it does is leave your hair "wet." No real moisture. Just wet. So, I'm thinking of going back to either Carol's Daughter Hair Milk, which I have some serious mixed emotions over, or trying something else.

My mom talked to her natural hair stylist up in DC, and she was saying that I need to be clarifying more with products that aren't all natural as my hair is sooo thick and stuff, sometimes these all natural products aren't strong enough. Now, she could be right. But, what about ppl from thousands of years ago. They only used natural products and their hair seemed to flourish just fine. Now, I know this atmosphere is a lot more messed up than it used to be too however.

Posted by The Star at 9:17 AM

burning scalp (1)
Carol's-Daughter (8)
co-wash (3)
coconut (1)
conditioner (1)
confessions (1)
curl definition (5)
curlformers (2)
curls (6)
curls n threads (4)
curly girl method (1)
deals (2)
Denman Brush (2)
detangling (2)
doing natural hair (1)
dry hair (1)
dry scalp (3)
frohawk (1)
greasy hair (1)
hair anxiety (1)
hair challenge (1)
hair crisis (1)
hair goals (1)
hair growth (1)
hair milk (1)
hair product reviews (3)
Hair Treatments (1)
hairspeak (8)
hairspiration (1)
hat (1)
herbal essences (2)
hot oil treatment (1)
inspiration (1)
introduction (2)
itchy scalp (1)
Jane carter (4)
keratin (1)
kinky-curly (9)
knots (2)
learning natural hair (4)
letting go (1)
Lush (1)
miss jessie's (5)
model hair (1)
moisture (8)
Moisturizers (4)
my hair updates (33)
my regimen (2)
nappy roots (1)
natural (3)
natural hair in public (6)
natural hair in the professional workplace (2)
olive oil (1)
organix (1)
oyin (6)
product junkies (1)
protective styling (6)
redken (1)
relaxed (1)
sealing (1)
shea butter (1)
shedding (4)
shiny hair (1)
simplicity (1)

2 comments:

Skeeta said...

I dont know, I also think people back then didn't use all of the products that we use, they weren't ordering oyin handmade online! LOL Anyway, I use the suave clarifying shampoo like once a month or so (every other wash day). Its only 1.50. You can use a "drop" on your scalp only and let it drip over your ends. And I got the hair milk from Shea moisture that I really like for styling but its thick to me but it could be mixed with a little water. Great reviews, I don't know why everyone acts like that stuff is the bomb but maybe our hair is different from theirs (I think my texture is closer to yours.)

April 18, 2010 1:47 PM

Max said...

One of my Sorors put me on to your blog and it's awesome. I cosign on the Suave Clarifying Shampoo. I use it every time I shampoo which is about every 2 weeks. I'm definitely going to try the Jane Carter stuff you mentioned. I used to use the nourish and shine stuff on my skin because it sucked it on my hair when I used it back in the days when I relaxed. I'll keep checking back on your progress since your hair texture and journey seems to mirror mine :)

April 26, 2010 12:17 AM

Post a Comment

Links to this post

Create a Link

Newer Post

Home

Older Post

Subscribe to: Post Comments (Atom)

