

Callan albums profile subscribe

this site all xanga

About this Entry

From: Callan

Posted: 6/3/2011 5:06 PM

Read CommentsPost a CommentSubscribe to CallanBack to Callan's Weblog« newer Callan's weblog older »

Friday, 03 June 2011

The Best Product For Dry Hair

Would you describe yourself as a person with hair so dry that it feels like steel wool? I know how you feel, chickadees, because my hair is relatively dry and drinks up oil at an astronomical rate. This leads (for me at least) to a sense of unbridled frustration because your hair seems to always be this dry, desert wasteland. Come on now, I don't want to look at my hair and be reminded of Lawrence of Arabia. I have tried approximately umpteen products to try and fix my dry hair, and I have found one that works swimmingly. Ha, get it? Water pun! Yes, I know that was sort of dumb, bordering on slapstick.

The best product I have ever used for my dry hair is Jane Carter Solution. I was skeptical in the beginning, because every product makes the claim that it is going to work, yet I am almost always disappointed at the results (or lack thereof). The Jane Carter products worked amazingly well on my hair and the best part is that they are all natural. All natural products are the best for your hair because they come from the natural elements of the earth, and you don't have to worry about strange oils (mineral, petroleum) sneaking into the product. In fact, I looked up the ingredients that are in the products and they consist of Shea Butter, an assortment of fruit oils, lavender and lots of vitamins. It sort of sounds delicious too, not that I would recommend eating a hair product.

Some of my favorite products are the Nourish products, because they work best at moisturizing my hair when I am in a rush or at night when I want to wake up with beautiful, shiny hair in the morning. My best recommendation is to use the (ABOVE, $16) Nourish and Shine product and the Scalp Nourishing Serum to help dry hair. Part your scalp in sections and apply the product (I would use the Scalp Nourishing Serum for the areas that aren't as dry and the Nourish and Shine for the problem areas and your ends) and pin your hair up for the night. In the morning you should wake up with a luscious (and not dry) head of hair. Thank you Jane Carter, for saving me on a consistent basis.

($14)

What are your favorite hair products?

5:06 PM 8 Views 0 eProps 0 Comments

recommend	recs	email	sent
	0		0
like

« newer Callan's weblog older »

Related Posts

[Help, I Think I Have
Insomnia!](#)

Sign in to Comment

 Xanga Network  Facebook  Twitter
Other (guest)

Give eProps (?)