Jane Carter Solution review (hair nourishing cream, scalp nourishing serum) night routine

Wednesday, June 9th, 2010 at 7:12 am

Day 20 of "No Cone" Challenge The Jane Carter Solution "Hair Nourishing Cream" & "Scalp Nourishing Serum" both get a Thumbs Up. I especially liked the "Scalp Nourishing Serum." It relieved my scalp itchiness immediately and it has pure essential oils in it... You can smell the essential oils which smell so refreshing. Although the "Hair Nourishing Cream" has a refreshingly, lemony scent, I probably will not use it again because it's too light for my hair. My thick hair needs a heavier moisturizer for my daily moisturizing needs. www.janecartersolution.com

Hair Nourishing Creme. Left my hair with a kinda thin film, hair felt dry, not crazy about scent. Thumbs Down.

Twist & Lock. Same as the Creme, but totally hated the scent as seemed stronger than the creme. Thumbs Down.

Revitalizing Leave-In. Didn't detangle, didn't moisturize, dislike the scent tho it dissipates soon. Thumbs down.

Nourish & Shine. A keeper. Luvs it. Thumbs Up.

Haven't tried other JC products b/c of many misses and not really needing the other stuff.

My JC fav's so far are the Wrap & Roll and the Nourish & Shine.

On second thought, I think I may try the Scalp Serum. But, yeah, I need to re-up on two more jars of Nourish & Shine first, lol.

My cousin and niece loved the Hair Nourishing Creme and Revitalizing Leave-In, so I gave them my stash. Haven't heard on whether they like the Twist & Lock.

I told my sister she can have the JC products that I'm not too fond of. She owns a hair salon her in South Jersey and uses JC products on her clients which are mostly loc clients.

The Hair Nourishing Creme is very light. I use it as a daily moisturizer after I refreshen my curls with water in the morning. I also layer it over other products because I like the citrusy smell. I've sat in on a conference call that Jane Carter hosts and she also recommends the Hair Nourishing Creme be utilized for flat ironing, but with reduced heat. If I understood her correctly, when the hair is moisturized it requires less heat. I will repurchase again. Thanks again for your reviews!

Maybe I'll give it to my 14-year old daughter who is relaxed and she can use it before flat ironing her hair.

Have you ever tried a scalp scrub in between your washes to get rid of itchy scalp? There is a young lady up here that made a scalp rub out of brown sugar, tea tree oil and conditioner. Search that out, looks promising.

I think I have heard of that scalp rub concoction before... never tried it though. It sounds promising... may give it a whirl.

Good thing fam is always there to take the products b/c I feel like things are a total waste if I have to chuck them in the trash. I'm thinking about locs, very seriously thinking, but then always get the reconsider bug as I love fingers-in-hair to make twists and giants puffs. But, if I'm ever in NJ again (usually go to Chatham & Newark), then I'll have to drop you a PM to get the details on your sister's shop. 😊

I alternate between 2-strand twists, twistouts, braidouts, puffs, ponytails, and occasional wash & go's.

but i have a question..
i recently bought from this product called "Skin food" . they gave me samples in it .. like 'black garlic serum' , 'orange citrus serum' ...
im wondering if this is for your skin or for specifically for your scalp. im not even sure what serum is but im pretty sure its like some kind of moisturizer.. i think its for my face but if its not i dont wanna apply it there.

I just googled it, and it's for skin, not hair.

did you know Jane is from Jersey? She lives there now and I met her when I went to Kean's graduation! She was sooo cool!

Yes, I do. I actually met Jane too, at a hair show. A friend of mine also get her hair done by Jane, herself... and I agree, I think she's cool too.
